

NEW MANAGING DIRECTOR FOR GLADED DALE CAPITAL

Gladedale Capital, recently named Scottish Developer of the Year in the 2010 Estates Gazette Awards and the company behind the iconic £450m Quartermile development in Edinburgh, has appointed Paul Curran to the position of managing director.

With over 15 years of experience as a chartered surveyor, Paul has been with Gladedale since 2005 when he joined the company as project management director, leading the in-house project management team.

Over the last decade he has worked for both public and private sector projects with a number of high profile organisations. His experience extends across commercial, retail, residential and leisure sectors.

Paul Curran commented: "I look forward to taking on my new role at Gladedale Capital. Quartermile continues to go from strength to strength and we have some fantastic projects currently in development making this a very exciting time for the company."

Neil Fitzsimmons, chief executive of the Gladedale Group, said: "Paul has played a vital role in the development of Gladedale Capital and thoroughly deserves his new appointment as managing director. Despite a very challenging environment, Gladedale Capital has made significant progress and we look forward to Paul and his team continuing that success in the years ahead."

Its flagship project is the Quartermile development on the site of the former Edinburgh Royal Infirmary. When complete, Quartermile will feature over 300,000 sq. ft of premium office space, over 55,000 sq. ft of retail and leisure space, more than 900 new and converted modern apartments and seven acres of landscaped gardens and public space.